PRESS RELEASE

Detroit Testing Laboratory, Inc. to open Washington Testing Laboratory

February 1, 2011

Detroit Testing Laboratory, Inc., a leading automotive, military, aerospace and industrial testing and development laboratory, announces that it will be opening a new laboratory outside of Seattle in Bothell, Washington. The new facility, named DTL Canyon Park, will begin operations by the 2nd quarter of 2011.

A testing alliance between DTL Canyon Park and CKC Laboratories, Inc. will provide single source complete DO-160 and Mil-Std-810/Mil-Std-461 testing with Environmental and Vibration/Shock testing (DTL) and EMC testing services (CKC). DTL Canyon Park will be housed within a 10,000 square foot test space in the Canyon Park Business Center development, adjacent to CKC's EMC facility.

"CKC recognizes the need for the additional testing capability this partnership brings. Our capability as a leading EMC testing laboratory for Military and Aerospace customers goes hand in hand with the Environmental and Dynamics Testing DTL specializes in and we are pleased to be able to provide a more fully rounded service to our customers", stated CKC Director of Sales, Todd Robinson. "It was important to us that our partner be one of the top labs in the U.S. and well versed in our industry. DTL has been in the testing business for over 100 years and we are confident this partnership will be a great benefit to our customers."

DTL President & CEO, Earl L. Smith stated, "This partnership with CKC continues DTL's commitment to bring our industry leading experience and expertise to new markets in the U.S. As a company with a long history of testing for the Military and Aerospace industry, we are confident our brand of service will create an immediate and dramatic impact for customers requiring this testing. This partnership will allow the customers in the Seattle area to have a single supplier team that offers industry leading quality, unmatched customer service and cost-effective pricing.
